Green Properties of Graber Traditions Wood Blinds

- Wood blinds reduce solar heat gain in the summer and reduce heat loss in the winter by creating an insulating buffer between the interior and exterior. This insulating effect reduces energy consumption and lowers energy costs.
- By blocking UV rays, wood blinds prevent damage to furniture, fabrics and interior finishes protecting the durability of these items and reducing sending damaged products to a landfill prematurely.
- Bamboo slats are available. Bamboo is a highly renewable resource.
- Wood waste from the manufacturing process is used to fuel the boiler, providing steam to heat the drying kilns and the factory. Excess sawdust is turned into wood pellets in a “waste-to-energy” program. Over 4,500 tons (99%) of sawdust was recycled in our Grayling facility in one year alone.
- Graber Traditions Wood blinds carry a limited lifetime warranty and are designed, engineered and tested to ensure a long life, reducing landfill waste created by short-lived products. Wood slats are warranted for five years.

Eco-Friendly Raw Materials

- Graber Wood Blinds are produced using North American hardwoods that are carefully harvested through “sustainable yield forest management”. This means that the amount of wood harvested is far below the levels of growth. In fact, the volume of hardwoods in American forests today is 90 percent larger than it was 50 years ago. Because this wood is sourced and processed domestically, the transportation energy to deliver the finished blinds to market is minimized. Many of today’s wood products are imported from other continents; consuming significant energy in overseas shipping.
